

Your First Web Page

These are the building blocks you'll need to create your first page. All web-pages contain these basic "container tags" – codes that open and close and format what is between them. You have to type them exactly right, or it wont work.

Begin by typing these tags using Notepad on a PC (or TextEdit on a Mac):

```
<html>
```

```
  <head>
```

```
    <title> My Web Page – appears in title bar </title>
```

```
    <!--The head is also where links to CSS style-sheets and Javascript goes, to create buttons, for example -->
```

```
  </head>
```

```
  <body>
```

```

```

Your Text Goes Here. Hi There World!
This is what shows up in the browser window!

```

```

```
  </body>
```

```
</html>
```

Wow, that's it. Save this as index.html (not .txt or .doc!) and you have created your first web page.
